2. Recent requirements have necessitated an increased effort to expand our collection program for photography to be used in support of research and operations in areas other than the Sovbloc. Among the interesting acquisitions on these areas during the past quarter were: 600 photos showing Communist traffic from Bloc countries to Laos; 4,713 new photos on Cuba; 500 photos to up-date our coverage on Surinam and British Guiana; 209 photographs on Yugoslav industry and urban areas; 16 photos of the site for a nuclear reactor to be built in Ghana with Soviet aid; and several collections of color slides on strategic hamlets and tribal groups in South Viet Nam.

3. Eight films on the Minute-man, Nike Ajax, etc. were furnished to a Joint Missile Analysis Group (JAG) which included representatives from OSI, DIA, Air Force, Army and Navy. 25X1

4. [redacted]

5. The demand for film coverage on all Bloc May Day parades continues to increase and as a result the Register acquired more than 32,000 feet of film to satisfy these requirements. Soviet and Satellite hardware was and is of prime importance and all footage was made available to Army and Air Force Technical Intelligence Services, as well as to our own offices of interest, for screenings and extractions of still photography. An additional 6,000 feet of film was obtained on the Cuban 26 July Celebration and parades for possible detection of Soviet manufactured hardware in that country. 25X1

6. Requirements for film coverage on Soviet space efforts continues to increase also. Over 32,000 feet of videotape was procured by GR, mostly from [redacted] concerning such subjects as the Popovich and Nikolayev flights, the Titov interviews at the Soviet Embassy and National Academy of Science. An additional 4,000 feet of good 16mm film was made available to the Intelligence Services and the Foreign Technology Division of the Air Force. 25X1

B. Examples of Outstanding Service or Support

1. Priority requirements on Cuba were a major influence on the Photograph Branch's collection and processing activities during the past three months. Our all-source collection effort is continuing and much valuable photography is being obtained, particularly through exploitation of Cuban publications and videotapes. Collection guidance was sent to [redacted] 25X1 to assist personnel who are monitoring Havana telecasts.

2. Most interesting photographic acquisitions during this period were Cuban radar installations, caves suspected of housing arms and missiles, and merchant vessels with deck cargo both going to and coming from Cuba. Indicative of the great interest in photographs during the "crisis" were the following services provided:

16 photos of the Soviet "Sandal" SSM were sent on "crash" priority to the DCI; 4 photos of the same missile to the Director, USIA; 101 photos of terrain, swamps, etc. to ORR Geographic Division; 25 photos of government buildings in Havana to the 18th Airborne Corps.

3. Other Latin American areas were receiving new attention and requests for photography included: 250 photos on beaches and port facilities were selected and requested by the U.S. Marine Corps; 93 photos of Latin American military and political leaders were sent out in answer to a priority request from Major General Leonard, ACSI.

4. During calendar year 1962, the Photograph Branch completed 10,697 requests and furnished 300,037 CIA photographs to the Agency and the Intelligence Community. In addition, the Photo Branch obtained 59,669 Defense photographs for Agency requestors. Total photographs furnished -- 359,706. 16,832 items were processed in our "crash" photo lab. 24,458 photos were deleted from the Master File. 25X1

5. Since the receipt of the first videotape of recorded Havana telecasts made by [redacted] at their [redacted] installation, a total of 19 were received through December, involving 35 screenings of these tapes. Total attendance at these screenings was 122 persons. Task Force W, in particular, showed great interest in these tapes. 25X1

6. DDP/FE and NE special "crash" requests were serviced for films of obsolete arms, munitions, and various military equipment of the type being used by Indian forces to support training during the Chinese Communist attack on India. 25X1

7. During this period, a large volume of stock footage was acquired from USIA, the United States Signal Corps, and certain commercial distributors such as [redacted] etc., for the use of OTR in the production of a film on the DDI.

2. Graphics Register continues its exploitation of open source materials, stressing those publications which consistently contain photographs of intelligence significance. For example, the newspaper, Krasnaya Zvezda, has become one of our most important publications since our subscription began in January. Typical photographs taken from this newspaper have included: a missile being fired from a Kommar-class PGMB; first available photograph of N-class nuclear submarine "Leninskiy Komsomol"; missile launch equipment; photographs of Soviet Aid Projects in free world areas; numerous personality shots of top-ranking Soviet military personnel. "Smena" magazine provided us with a photograph of the TU-16 Badger with the AS-1 Kennel under wing. The magazine "Soviet Export" has been a source for photos of Soviet Aid Projects, showing equipment enroute to Yemen, India, China, France, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, and Cuba.

3. Important photographic acquisitions received [redacted] included: SA-1 and SA-3 sites near Teplovo (outside Moscow); Soviet Big Bar and Fan Song radars in Indonesia; Soviet ship "Yemelyan Pugachev" carrying 4 Kommar-class PGMG's enroute to Indonesia; Submarine missile support ship, pendant No. 44, probable new-class Soviet minesweeper; N-class nuclear-powered submarine; additional photos of the G-class ballistic missile submarine. 25X1

4. The Far East Area Desk has increased processing of Chinese Communist photography during the reporting period. Seven Chinese language newspapers, 11 magazines and numerous Chinese language photographic monographs are being exploited on a continous basis. In addition, the exploitation of English language open source publications have been stepped up (on China, North Korea and North Vietnam). These photographs are responsive to specific requirements of NPIC, CRR and the Defense Agencies.

5. Requirements for pictorial evidence of military activities and the withdrawal of Soviet personnal and equipment from Cuba have been given top priority. Graphics Register's screenings of videotape coverage of the January 2 Havana Parade were held during the morning of 3 January for Agency and other representatives of the Intelligence Community. Still photographs of military equipment covered were extracted from the videotape, some 241 photo copies being processed within 24 hours by Graphics Register for CIA and DIA offices. Of prime interest were the photos of the "Cruise" missile (Kennel). In addition, 84 photos of Soviet missiles, missile transporters, and ships in Cuban harbors were "crash" processed for NPIC and SAS requirements.

the analysts selecting 59 of the 69 slides for use in their respective offices. A total of 167 color transparencies were processed to meet Agency requirements. Black and white photography of the parade was obtained from the Air Force and the Army to fill Agency requests with a total of 1,794 prints being furnished. Twenty copies each of 23 CIA photographs were processed on a crash basis to meet Agency and Department of Defense requirements.

2. A long sought Soviet film, "Along the Black Path", purporting to reveal U. S. efforts to penetrate the Soviet Intelligence System, was procured 6 June 1963 and was initially presented to CIA and other intelligence components on 7 June 1963. Thereafter, film analysts and technicians translated, narrated and tape-recorded the sound track into English. The film has enjoyed twelve additional showings for overflow audiences. Duplicate copies of the film and the English sound tape have been prepared for loan to DIA, AFCIN, and other requestors.

3. The Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission was supplied with 40 (2 ea.) photographs of Soviet nuclear installations and prominent atomic scientists for a special handbook used on his recent trip to the USSR. 7. Film Branch furnished an initial supply of 16mm color film and a detailed list of items to be covered by a skilled motion picture photographer who is going to Indonesia. His footage, along with tape-recorded narratives, will be sent back to Film Branch for processing and editing at intervals during the next three or four years. Additional film will be furnished to the traveler as required. This promises to greatly enhance the coverage of that area.
